DETAILED ACTION

Applicants' amendment and remarks filed 10/19/2006 have been received.

Claims 6 – 10, 14, and 28 are pending pursuant to amendment.

Response to Amendment

The rejections over claims 18 – 24, as discussed in the previous office action, are moot since those claims have been cancelled by the amendment filed 10/19/2006.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 6 and 10 remain rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by US 5,077,049 to Dunn et al for reasons of record and those discussed below.

Response to Arguments

Applicants' arguments have been fully considered, but are not persuasive. In response to applicant's argument that the references fail to show certain features of applicant's invention, it is noted that the features upon which applicant relies (i.e., that there be no phase separation during the process of the invention) are not recited in the rejected claim(s). Although the claims are interpreted in light of the specification, limitations from the specification are not read into the claims. See In re Van Geuns, 988 F.2d 1181, 26 USPQ2d 1057 (Fed. Cir. 1993).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 6, 7, and 9 remain rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over US 7,492,154 to Einstman in view of US 5,447,724 to Helmus and US 4,769,286 to LaNoane for reasons of record and those discussed below.

Response to Arguments

Applicants' arguments have been fully considered, but are not persuasive. In response to applicant's argument that the references fail to show certain features of applicant's invention, it is noted that the features upon which applicant relies (i.e., that there be no phase separation during the process of the invention) are not recited in the rejected claim(s). Although the claims are interpreted in light of the specification, limitations from the specification are not read into the claims. See In re Van Geuns, 988 F.2d 1181, 26 USPQ2d 1057 (Fed. Cir. 1993). Applicant points to the word "gel" in Einstman, and states that this term is used to mean a partial separation from the solvents. This is understood to be the recognized meaning of the term in the art. Indeed, the same term (gel) is used in the instant claims, and since the instant specification does not offer notice that this term is being used in a manner atypical to its standard use in the art, the term "gel" in instant claims and the term "gel" in Einstman are understood to have the same meaning.

Applicants' also imply that LeNoane is non-analogous art because it is directed to reinforced plastics and not medical prostheses. However, insofar as the medical prostheses of Einstman (and the instant claims) are made of polymeric materials (that is, plastics), LaNoane is directed to subject matter that is reasonably connected to that of the instant invention, and thus is applicable and analogous art.

Claims 14 and 28 remain rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over US 5,077,049 to Dunn in view of US 3,553,008 to Reischl.

Response to Arguments

Applicants' arguments have been fully considered, but are not persuasive. In response to applicant's argument that the references fail to show certain features of applicant's invention, it is noted that the features upon which applicant relies (i.e., that there be no phase separation during the process of the invention) are not recited in the rejected claim(s). Although the claims are interpreted in light of the specification, limitations from the specification are not read into the claims. See In re Van Geuns, 988 F.2d 1181, 26 USPQ2d 1057 (Fed. Cir. 1993).

Conclusion

THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
